ADVISORY COUNCIL

Fairfax County Police Department District Community Advisory Committees (CAC)

Want to be more involved with the Fairfax County Police Department? Want to provide a valuable service to your community, and be more informed about county issues and laws at the same time?

Consider attending your local FCPD Community Advisory Committee (CAC) meetings, which are open to the public and held at your police station each month.

CAC meetings enhance communication between residents and the FCPD and offer county residents a chance to interact with members of their local police districts. Residents are kept informed about significant safety matters in their neighborhoods and are encouraged to bring any issues or questions to the attention of local police commanders.

CAC Background and Purpose

In 1979, the Fairfax County Police Department established a program to enhance its ability to communicate with and better serve the community.

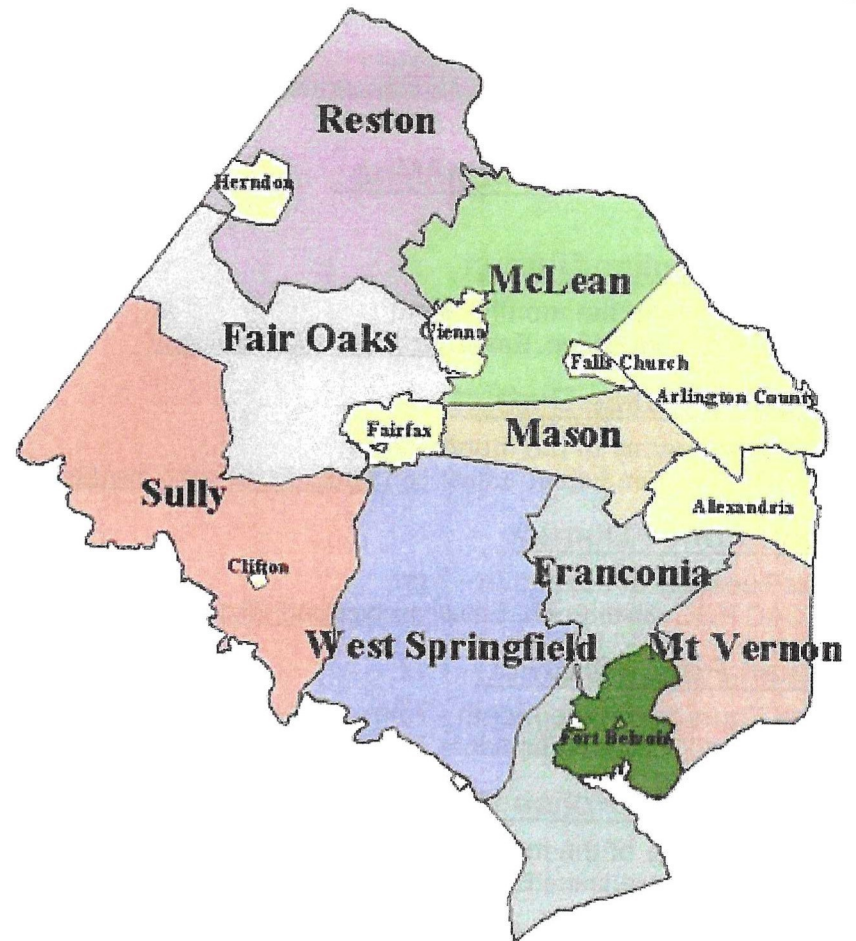

This program took the form of advisory groups, known as Community Advisory Committees (CACs), comprised of county residents representing a cross-section of the various neighborhoods of Fairfax County. Each of the eight police stations formed its own CAC to work hand-in-hand with the station commander on issues confronting that particular district. The CACs meet on a monthly basis, and meetings are open to the public.

The purpose of the CAC is to provide:

1. A forum for obtaining county resident input about the delivery of police services;
2. A formalized process that will facilitate county resident and community cooperation with the police and;
3. A means to identify specific and potential problem areas concerning the police.
